The screenshot displays the flightradar24 mobile application interface. The top portion shows a 3D map of the sky with numerous aircraft icons, many of which are yellow, representing the flight EI123. The map includes logos for various airlines such as FedEx, American Airlines, United, Aer Lingus, Lufthansa, British Airways, and Iberia. The flightradar24 logo is in the top left corner.

Below the map, the Google logo is visible. The flight details for EI123/EIN123, operated by Aer Lingus, are shown. The route is from DUB (Dublin) to ORD (Chicago). The flight status indicates it departed 03:22 ago and is arriving in 04:47. The aircraft is an Airbus A330-302 with registration EI-FNG. The current altitude is 35,000 feet and the ground speed is 412 knots. A small inset image of the aircraft is shown on the right side of the flight details section.

At the bottom of the screen, there is a navigation bar with five icons: 3D view, Route, More info, Follow, and Share.

The feature that can track flights on their journey in real-time is something most interested. It not only provides people with important information but also a form of entertainment, like a kind of stress relief. You will sit down and watch something idle, like idle games. But this is a system, something that's happening in the real world. As expected, it gives people a certain stimulation. Moreover, if you know that there will be a plane going to fly over the airspace where you are living, you will be able to run out and take pictures. This feature allows you to identify flights flying above your head. If you take your phone to the sky, you can get all the information and a photo of the actual aircraft. In the case that still not satisfied with what we see, users can get the photos are set on full 3D graphics. It also allows you to receive photos from a pilot's perspective. For those who really care about flight information, it's easy to look up. When you are at home, you can see a flight you want to care about. For example, if you have a loved one flying on it, you need specific information. All you need to do is find the plane and flight, then click on it to see useful details such as route, estimated time of arrival, the actual time of departure, aircraft type, speed, altitude, high-resolution photos of the actual aircraft & more. Sometimes you will miss some of the information you need. At this point, do not worry because you can find that information stored in the history of the journey. Flightradar24 Flight Tracker almost retains all the history of flight on its server. You can freely review some data and video playback of past flights. However, if you wanted to look up history a long time ago, you have to upgrade to premium. It's easy to find the planes and flights you are interested in. The application will have a box to enter data, and you just need to give the flight number, airport, or airline. One of those data can lead you to the results you want. Reviews from users Ashley Dixon: I had this on my old phone and didn't have any issues. When I got a new phone I almost immediately had problems with the system UI and apps stopping and freezing. I factory reset my phone, then reinstalled this app, and I immediately started having problems again. Didn't matter whether it was running or not. Not sure what the problem was but hopefully an update can fix it. Bob Reeves: I have been using Flightradar24 for over 10 years, and the Android app for 5-10 years. It has always been my go-to flight tracker. Improvements are made frequently, and the app just keep getting better. It is not bogged down by including features not important to its basic premise. Help is supplied quickly and in a friendly fashion. I use some other flight trackers but always come back to Flightradar24. Keep up the good work! Cecil Paradiso: Works again after map hotfix but really, what's the point? As a purchaser of the former pro version, I, like all the others, have been abandoned by the developer when they upgraded the app to require a paid subscription. Now, to keep the benefits we had as an original purchaser, they want us to pay again. And again, and again, etc. etc. No thanks! Jeff L. I don't trust this developer. It left users of the previous PURCHASED version out in the cold with only an offer of an extended free trial. NO, I purchased this app with a one-time fee and I do not understand why they cannot honor these purchasers with a basic, ad-free experience. Install at your own risk and subscribe knowing that at anytime after you have paid, they will change the terms again and it's either pay up or get out. I don't see much more new in this version of the app than I did in the old. If you paid for the old and end up installing this one, you'll see pretty much the same thing with the exception of a huge ad at the top until you subscribe. Michael Minnis: Very disappointed that an App that I paid for just one day quits working forever. That is like a car manufacturer telling you "sorry your car is 10 years old and you'll need to buy a new one. We've disabled it" I've been using it originally since it was probably used to support the move if given the choice. But not when its forced.A Google user: I checked my email, I also paid for the premium version of this app in Feb 2017. I'm also going to delete the app right before the 90 day free trial ends. I will not be bombarded with ads and I won't pay $10 a year for an app that I use less than 5 minutes a month. I have no interest in you asking me to email you, so you can tell me how the old app was from 2010 and new technologies had to be employed. Tech gets cheaper as years go by, not more expensive by 20 times or more. Do whats right!A Google user: Tried the 1 week free trial, glad I didn't have to pay for it beforehand. Needed Filters & Alerts but couldn't get Alerts to work properly the whole week. The app should send an Alert when your chosen plane enters the map area selected. This would work on 1 of every 10 planes. The rest were on the ground when I got an alert even though I didn't adjust altitude settings to zero (or set them at all). Fix this and I'll be happy to pay your yearly fee.A Google user: Very detailed app when it comes to tracking flights, viewing history of the aircraft as far as where it's been, the age of the aircraft by showing how long it has been in service and multiple picture of the actual aircraft. my biggest gripe is probably a small one. The ability to save the track aircraft that you are looking for. To like a list. That has alerts to it I will notify you when an aircraft is went a specific range or on the ground.A Google user: It does as good as you can expect. It does not put you on the planes exact location but pretty close. You are able to track most planes if you spot one in the air. It works very well on most airports departing and incoming flights. The only reason I gave it a 4 star was because you are not following the planes exact location. Thank you developers for the app. A job well done.A Google user: I really like this app. I live in the L.A. area so there's a ton of air traffic, several airports. I hear planes overhead all the time, it's really cool to be able to see their altitude & destination. And I love the flight following feature too. You can email/message yourself (or someone else) the link to follow a specific flight--that could be really handy. Flightradar24 Flight Tracker v8.18.7 (57Mb)
